THANKSGIVING
POINT

Team Member of the Month

Since her starting date, Alexa (who goes by Lex) has become an invaluable member of the team. Her enthusiasm for fun and positive attitude, combined with some serious design skills makes for a great combination for museum exhibit design. She is comfortable taking control of difficult situations and finding collaborative solutions to them. She has helped us improve the quality of our work and has made significant contributions to the upcoming play structure design at MAMAL, the new plan for the Jr. Paleo Lab and several other smaller projects. If you ever need advice on 3D modeling and printing, she would probably love to help. We are excited and fortunate to have her on our team.
