Team Member of the Month

Meet Camden,

Camden first joined the ancient life team almost a year ago as a guest experience lead, but due to his strong passions for paleontology and engaging with the guests, he worked his way into the role of “Programming Specialist”. In this role, Camden has had countless interactions that have left our guests with a new appreciation for not only paleontology, but of learning and discovering new things! His passion is contagious, and he has played a key role in elevating and expanding our programs here at the Museum of Ancient Life. And don’t let him fool you, he may say he’s not an actor, but when given the opportunity to portray a historic paleontologist, Camden always steps up to the plate and takes you back in time!

In his free time when not in school, Camden enjoys expanding his knowledge of dinosaurs and all things prehistoric! Camden is always coming prepared to work with new knowledge gained from working on home paleo projects. He also enjoys reading, and playing video games, and his sense of humor makes him a blast to be around!

To Camden we say thank you for being the incredible human that you are! You are not just appreciated by your managers and fellow team members, but by every guest that you talk to each day!

Thank You!
